This paper offers a concept of gradual transfer of the humanity from the modern urbanistic civilization to the Civilization of sufficiency, and from application of the negative Soul's features in life motivations of each individual to motivations, which use positive features of the Soul. The author displayed that result of the urbanism – monetarism further transformed into capitalism, put human civilization to destruction.

The work also substantiates toxic effect of scientific and technological achievements on people and their living on the Earth.

There are represented probable structures for managing new civilization of sufficiency including the global government, regions of sufficiency, and cells of sufficiency.

Moreover, the author examined variants of preserving humanity as a biological species within the civilization's critical periods.

Keywords: Urbanism, civilization of sufficiency, Soul elements (traits), science toxicity, crowd, monetarism, civilization breakdown.

Foreword

Current situation of the civilization world order and prospects of its development or decline are sufficiently well defined and investigated by philosophers, writers, and politicians. Historically, there have always been classes, agreed groups of states, some tyrants who act under flags of various parties, religious organizations, unions, or freedom fighters, which divided the world they knew, territories, manpower and natural resources, knowledge, and valuables. They did not and do not pay (adequate) attention to the fact that the area for the countries development is limited by the Earth's surface, that in highly-developed countries manpower resources display the common tendency of ageing and reduction of the health parameters; as well as the fact that technological factors have toxic character for human's biological nature, and got the form of a bomb, which can explode in hands of its creators at any moment of time.

The utter futility of the further existence of civilization through cities development, and large factories construction, even in case of applying the most sophisticated technologies, is absolutely clear. Excessive development of cities and towns, and reduction of people's contacts with nature, permanent wars, and conflicts among people and countries in general, arise from those very cities, from the urbanism ideology, which allows the lazier, more cunning, more blood-mind, and unscrupulous person to win a hardworking and honest under conditions of reduction of the social control and social solidarity in city environment, which is very close, in its nature, to the crowd.

Growth of planet population and toxicity of technological knowledge for the human society give ground to say that to save humans as a biological species, it is necessary to take really radical measures such as gradually dismount urbanistic civilization with simultaneous construction of a new well-disposed Earth civilization, which will be constructed free from the urban crowd effect and based on positive moral virtues of people.

It should be noted that there so sense to look for the elements of Thomas More's "Utopia", Campanella's "Civitas Solis", Francis Bacon "New Atlantis", or components of the "proletariat's world power" of K Marks and L. Trotsky, empire (Reich) of A. Hitler, or the power of some "chosen" priests (clergy).

A decision concerning urbanistic civilization dismounting must be made at the level of UN or any other organization created as a government of the world order formation or the "Global government".

Moreover, it is necessary to perform uniting of states. All types of property must become a necessity of being rather than a tool of enrichment. Monetary relations in their capitalistic form should be gradually cancelled.

In addition, it is necessary to cancel parties, unions, and other public education which can monopolize power in any region.

The armed forces, as a scalpel for removing tumours on the Earth's surface must be "in hands" of the Global authorities drawn by lot. Moreover, making such a global decision is not an issue of policy. It is the issue concerning human civilization survival in general. This paper consists of the chapters, which more provide explanation of the civilization reconstruction fundamentals in more details, taking into consideration moral aspects; introduction of the Order of ranks of the new urbanisticless civilization; formation of regions and compartments of reasonableness on the Earth; and sufficiency of technological transformations and education.

CHAPTER 1

URBANISTIC NATURE OF MODERN CIVILIZATION

1.1. Prerequisites for Urbanistic Civilization Breakdown

To understand why civilization of the large European countries selected the Urbanization way, yet the history provides a lot of examples when similar local civilizations or empires, like Egypt, Persian, Greek, or Roman, which were based on the same development principles as forms of being of people with various ways of thinking starting from the beastliness to democracy, and of various types of pseudo-states.

First of all it is assumed that it is necessary to compare psychophysical properties of humans, who are the principle constructor of cities and other similar formations, typical for people's society, starting from the ancient civilizations. Character of an ancient person are being described starting from the most ancient times – from Homer,

Sumerian legends, Egyptian writing, Bible stories, Haggadah and Talmud books, letters of St. Augustine, Nestor's chronicles, and others, which display "positive" traits of a human, and its Soul that can be described as many-sided. That includes, among the others, kindness, respect to other people, consciousness, etc. With that, the Soul experiences continuous struggle between its good and "bad - negative" traits. The latter can be described by several notions: laziness, making a hand of results of someone's labor, parasitism, robbing, violence, absence of clemency, lie, etc. Construction of cities in the form of a fortress, which facilitated to stand against attacks of vagrant tribes and to save one's property and lives of relatives, made it possible to concentrate people's efforts on developing technologies of manufacturing walls of such fortress, and protection weapon. This was the way, how the engineers, who also investigated various tools of trade facilitating tribes and nations labor appeared (here, we can detach such person as Archimedes). Nevertheless, on the base of religious faiths – pay to gods for the "normal" lives of families and specific people, there appeared variants of sacrifices represented not only by animals or humans, but also, using money, which equivalents and exchange were the “business” of so-called money jobbers and people who lent out money on interest; and which, in modern parlance, created the first elements of fraudulence. Later “product-to-product” exchange-based trade among people and towns started to be partially expelled by monetary equivalents of objects of such trade. Next stage was formation of various forms of parasitism through the money turnover; rhetoric as a verbal and legalized “umbrella” of authorities; “intellectual” services – consultation of kings and great nobles, priest rituals and development of cities and states legislation fundamentals. After that there had happened a gradually legislated separation of personal positive contacts between persons from contacts aimed at beneficitation with the primary of the latters.

In principle, domination of negative person’s Soul properties became apparent in the beginning of formation of cities as a system civilization unit. Indeed, this phenomenon can be explained by the aura of the crowd, when an individual intellect experiences a sharp drop under collecting a large amount of people in one place. However, that was true to some degree only.

A city collected people with common targets related to protection of the health and property; a possibility to communicate; comfort living conditions, and a possibility to form conditions suitable for rapid beneficiation. The human's soul, its elements and features have enormous energy potential in the form of visible and invisible potentialities, as a by-product during construction of cities, pyramids, and other projects; during uniting people for labor up to various abnormalities which can reveal as personal or public "infections" called revolutions or mutinies.

It can be again underlined that very often negative traits of the human's Soul defeat its positive traits. It is first of all explained by the fact that a person with positive traits of the Soul is a kind, honest person with consciousness, who lives according to the laws of a society he or she belongs to, and seeks to justice. And a person with negative traits of the Soul is a person, who can manipulate using deception, cheating, and fraudulence, who can descend to killing other people to get profit, property, or wealth. For the latter it is profitable to use others having such positive traits, as they are mainly usual people, and such actions lead to profit and later on to the wealth.

Profit is the core energy element that pushes such people inside a society called a city for actions.

Without cities, where both personal and relative contacts become fragile and unreliable, such “black” traits of a character of the Soul would not be able to have such a wide distribution. Moreover, the historical experience displays that powers, namely its functions as collection of taxes for various needs of the city, as well as for personal enrichment, made it possible to unite for the authorities, priests, and future bankers.

Moreover, the city improved priests (religious) power, which determined the level to which the gods help specific people or nations, constructed temples, possessed land plots, and had direct contacts with local powers and sometimes even replaced and supported it. All the abovesaid people in charge and moneylenders liked a lot owing the money or their equivalents (gold, or other precious metals) which had small dimensions that made it possible to easy transport them in case of changes in government structures, presence of conquerors, or simple transfer in space in general. The more assets were accumulated by an individual or its family, the less effect had the country borders or laws. This is how a strong connection between a city and a group of so-called bankers determining directions of its further development suitable for their profitability and performing negating effect to moral properties of citizens were established. There were multiple speeches concerning necessity of such parasites and explaining the application of a landing interest as a stimulus of progress. Nevertheless, if say seriously, those people did not understand, and cannot understand up to now that their hiding of thoughts in clouds of secrecy and conspiracy; formation of economic bubbles from bills, shares, and other similar instruments, which they perform using the city and its structures, they weaken mental and physical potential of city citizens, and while they (city owners) live perfectly, they provoke euphoria and loss of intellect, which lead to destruction of the humans' civilization itself.

They stimulate extraction and processing of war materials by creating useless products (goods), construct factories and destroy them, and thus, support or dramatically reduce birth rate via diseases and the same-sex romance, or self-indulgence, when people do not want children, and consider them a hindrance. Feeling the world managers they think that machines and robots will replace all people, who dance attendance on them. They regenerate; provoke permanent wars of various scales; brutalize every other, maintain continuous inheritance-based conspiracy; and are unable to understand that the Earth globe has limited dimensions, and it is high time to think about where the further urbanization can lead to in countries of the whole world. Cult to the "gold idol" and its residuals sunk by Moses in water as the blood element is so-called connected to the city, and makes no possibility to be reborn for developing ways of maintaining the existed civilization. But may be the one-day-prospect living with no thoughts about lives of next generations, but with money and power keeps their eyes closed?

Further on, for better understanding all the above listed large processes and grounds of the person's worst traits prevailing the best traits, in average, in groups of people, countries, or state unions during a war or some pressure during the peaceful period, it is recommended to assume, similarly with the presence of magnetic or electric fields, the fields of enmity, parasitism, lie, laziness, and fields of hypocrisy; and the field of truth, justice, respect, and hardworking – as the fields vector and force opposite to the above listed.

In a society, usually negative fields conquer people via public events, TV, or mass media. In more details, their brain, and their Soul are transformed, as well as actions of the people are activated for fulfillment of the society worst scenarios; they maintain pragmatic and monetary relation to other people, and prevent from understanding that such way has destructive consequences for the both, local situations, and further prospects of the human civilization. Such fields spread their actions to the managerial bodies of a country or a city, and distribute injustice and evil. And they are primarily generated by cities and parasitizing groups of people. They show only evil, murders, exchange, and endless triumph of superiority on the “picture of life”. And the sources of these fields affirm that the evil, free enterprise economy, and exploitation of honest and hard-working people is a useful property that, under existing conditions, stimulates all systems and organs of a person, as well as the both, of a person as a living being and the society in general. They affirm that it is the way they motivate to make lazy people to work. “If someone falls down or dies it means that it must be like that”, “Bolivar can’t carry double” (O’Henry) – everything’s done is done for the progress for the capital growth, and enlargement of gross national product...

In free enterprise economy behaviorism and instrumentalism fields are used as the forms of urbanism and improve notions of stimuli and development of possibilities – skills in laboring and subordination. However there is an opinion supported by the authority of saint books that each person is a whole world created from on high, and no other person is allowed to try to interfere or distort perception of this world, as it would get rise to lots of diseases, first of all in those, who would attempt to perform such intervention. No matter how mystically it may be heard. And of course, wars are appreciated by monetarists are the are the good as its supports to sacrifice, as they seriously explain it to mass media; they rise new wars somehow explaining their reasons and hiding symbols, and true understanding nature of such sacrifices, which roots go deep into past.

Elite's confederacy covers the whole urbanistic world with some notional strings, and mysticism of the powers colored with the blood of its victims make them drunk, and seems like the eternal happiness and their being “the chosen” from all other people. And they have no understanding that the fog created by urbanism theorists prevents them from seeing scenarios of probable ends of this urbanistic variant of civilization and they can face with the “Angel standing in the sun” in reality or in some projection of their own imagination. Features of this end were clear to many people, thus, one should think about probable transformations of the existed civilization or its probable dismantling and formation of a new one more viable human civilization based on such interactions as the kindness, consciousness, justice, and other positive traits of the Soul.

To examine this problem at the state level we should take, for example, the ideology of the fascist Germany, where nationalism was put on the top of the whole state system construction. Their mottos declared healthful mind of the nation, priority of the Saxon-German blood, and various historic opuses, which would allegedly confirm superexaltation of one nation above the others. The followers performed the most thuggish actions – killing of many thousands people, and elimination of whole nations. All that was done with the aim of enrichment or invasion of foreign lands. Many world leaders supported this extreme position and invasion of other countries. Victims in exchange to money. Probably, someone does not understand it clearly, but events that had place during the last war display that pragmatism of so-called democratic positions of many countries can easily surpass inhumanity borders as they are initially bred by the city (urban) civilization with its negative elements of the Soul and other similar philosophy of profit. Capabilities of such philosophy are contained in energy of these negative elements of the Soul. Coins melodies possess total control of their thoughts and actions.

For the more detailed investigation of this issue we must evaluate psychophysical reduction of a person's thinking inside the human society, including a person living inside the urban overcrowded accommodation, the so-called quasi-crowd. To understand this process it is necessary to watch behavior of a person inside a crowd, which is his/her most critical state in urban environment.

When in crowd people are at the spatially and physically closed distance from each other; they all become equal in intellect regardless to their personal intellect level and social position.

It is well known that crowd's intellect is significantly lower than the intellect of each individual that forms this crowd. A person in the crowd is capable to perform any act of evil and violence (Gustave Le Bon), first of all due to the ego conspiracy, that is, anonymously, as a crowd member. Moreover, we can see extensional psycho-infection and inability of individuals to satisfy their low-level needs (behaviorism) that leads to robberies and violence, which scales depend on the appetite of those who control such "people".

It is necessary to note the high energy level and inventiveness of a crowd in making negative actions. The crowd reveals all the nastiest and negative elements of the person's Soul, yet it is very hard to call a person a human inside the crowd.

If the crowd is overextended, and instead of a crowd leader each member gets thoughts and ideas of a city or a state-scale leader, we can see that the overextended crowd is an urban-level settlement, and people there would have similar negative elements of the Soul, however, in some slightly weakened variant. That means the “Law of the crowd” can be transformed into urban laws of the human civilization. The law of the psycho-physiological reduction of a human inside the crowd and the urban environment is represented on the chart of Fig. 1.

Here, variant 1 is represented as a proportional decrease of the intellect level in a small town; and variants 2 and 3 are typical for the large cities with various population categories, e.g., Novosibirsk, or Moscow.

The interstate relations are also effected by psychology of a rarely and tough populated countries, which is established according to everyday living variety, possibility of communication, and concentration of negative emotions. For example relations between the Western Europe and Russia can be investigated not only from the nationalistic positions, but rather from this aspect, however it requires a separate analysis.

Superconcentration of the crowd is described in the “Genesis” (Bible), where construction of the Babylon tower resulted in madness that led to “languages separation”.

In most cases the “crowd effect” is displayed in large cities, student campuses, army barracks, and even in traffic jams on roads. However it should be mentioned about use of psycho-physical properties of large groups of people during some large military missions, for example, during the war of 1941-1945, about which its participants told a lot.

As the majority of soldiers and junior officers of the Soviet Army were from rural settlements, they could easily accept information they heard from political officers, whose importance in the Victory was hardly less than soldiers'. Such political officers did not based their speeches on meaning aspect, as it was extremely hard to perform training on different aspects simultaneously including information concerning hard situation at the front, family values, Motherland, or geography immediately prior to a mission. Such difficulty was especially obvious applicable to the temporal memory loading with complicated terms about military-political situation at the front and behind the lines; parameters of enemies and their armament; or historical generalization. Taking into consideration complexity of terminology and notions, the soldiers' long-term memory was unable to get (evaluate) the core information, and thus it was placed in unstable position; and moreover, under guides (commands) of commanders it could not accept orders critically and weakened the organism self-protection systems, and ability to evaluate situation. Some veterans told about analgesic effect produced by such specific mission preparation of soldiers prior to attacks, when they felt no pain in case of being wounded but rather after the attack was finished. Of course when such wound was not deathful.

Note that this effect does not somehow down-grades heroism of soldiers or minor officers on that was. If we talk about "Maidan" in the capital of the Ukraine in 2013-2014, actions of propagandist people had the same effect, as reporters said, people performed criminal acts. Very often both professional and amateur hypnotizers, who instinctively understand profits from such effect of the overloaded memory, as well as gypsies, use it on some reasons.

All the abovesaid, to some extent confirms objectiveness of the Soul's negative traits reveal in cases when people live in urban civilization, which is obtains more significance in almost all countries of the Earth.

All the abovesaid, as well as the uncontrolled growth of the Erath population raise a reasonable necessity of, one would think a fantastic, to dismount urbanistic civilization.

It is, first of all, due to the fact that injustice and savagery in people's relations are built-in the urbanism by such its fundamental elements as cunning, laziness, and parasitism, which carriers are, primarily governing groups of bankers, frauds, and authors of lying concepts that take the deceived away from understanding that they are being deprived from all the best they have – resources, education, honesty, pride; and suggested profit chase leads to uncontrolled population growth and a high level of probability of military or ecological death of civilization.

Urbanistic model of civilization deprives people from real processes that have place in Nature, and turns them into some kind of a robot or a “free” slave, which is so much required by global corporations under the well-known motto “bread and circuses” supported by some charity gifts and sports entertainment events.

Various ideologies often wrapped with a cover of religion, multiple variants of scientific concepts, life overfilled with technologies make human’s living extremely harder and permanently sequesters real mental abilities. The so-called capitalism represented in the form of modern democracies, contains all principle urbanism features, probably at its last stage, with the high level of the “free slaves” concept development, which core features are laziness, cunning, parasitism, selfishness, etc.

Being a result of urbanism, a common modern person that processes positive characteristics and perceives existing civilization as the basis of justice, does not understand his being deceived, and such contradictions often provoke psychophysical disorders, which are typically treated by so-called analytical psychologists. Such treatment raptures positive traits of the Soul, and turns them into the worst ones that are described above, or lead to mental or physical suicide.

In the very beginning of its development urbanism gave birth to capitalism and proletariat in that very sense, which was suggested by K. Marks. as once Moses established his ideas of monotheism and Torah at the meeting of tribes under the name of Jacob generations, so did K. Marks (being a son of a rabbi) applied ideas of communism to proletariat having assigned to it not only the mission of the revolution, but also, due to its large-scale involvement, a capability to reconstruct the world under management of “the chosen” ones who would form the global communist society – the communist civilization applying the formulae “each according to his needs”.

However, during construction of a pre-communist society as a fundamental for the future civilization, USSR and other socialistic countries faced stratification of society with benefits and advantages for the leaders and managers. Such stratification and plans of the leaders to enlarge such stratification via owing some property, or attempts to become aristocrats (hidden symbolism by Gorbachev), made them equal to rich people living in capitalism regime, at least, equal in conceit. But as it is known from the Talmud, not each person successful in trading or working close to the state head adds mental abilities, thus, in case of the pre-communist society leaders, they obtained power and wealth, however, go no mental abilities or understanding that one can't cut a branch (ideology) while sitting on it. Should they desire some more, they (Andropov as an ideologist and Gorbachev as an executor) in joined rage with representatives of the western, so-called democratic capitalism, destroyed the state itself, its industry – the base of the USSR power, and the social pattern formed in some aspects for the profit of common people. However, they or their followers did not get the majority of the country, but rather profit makers who waited for the loss of power by the old incompetent (remember “State Committee on the State of Emergency”) elite. Some economists, for example, John Mill, wrote that profit makers are good at product redistribution for getting more profit, yet they cannot create, i.e. manufacture it. As a result, starting from 1991 capitalism in Russia governed by Yeltsin reminded a lot of the Pugachev's regime, if he (imagine this situation) would have conquered the power in modern Russia. A mystical repetition of historic events. Yet, the Soviet Union failed to find a new Suvorov to solve this problem.

Another well-known pre-communist state is the Chinese variant, Deng Xiaoping who was determined by US and other developed countries, which acted significant part in the global hierarchy, as a manufacturer of the global-level consumption goods, which can smooth living of the poorest social levels in most countries of the world. Currently, this state is much closer to the state-level capitalism than to the pre-communist regime, and is able to produce any range of products; however, it possesses its own concept of the global civilization formation, with Chinese specificities.

Other states, from small-scale dictatorships to states that were insufficiently developed in economy, are a mixture of injustice, internal stresses, but with large cities and minimal amount of sanitary laws, and sanitary in general.

The modern concept of the global structure under government of one country, for example, the US, which was suggested to the whole world, taking into consideration the fact that this country is the strongest state, has large amount of disadvantages. Strange as it may seem, the key disadvantage is the political-economic one. Together with the huge scale of the industry potential of the USA, we face unstable global markets that can destroy economy and their leadership in economy and armament against the other states produces envy and anger among low-developed countries that is often related to the low purchasing ability and low living conditions. Moreover, political structure of the USA is built on the main principles of capitalism, which mainly consists of injustice, parasitism, fraud, continuous profit seeking, and other disadvantages, which lead to destruction of our civilization, and which is represented in this paper as the urbanistic civilization.

Is it possible to change fundamental characteristics of urbanism expressed in the forms of the extreme monetarism, usurious savagery, and anonymity in using slave labor of so-called “free” nations? Of course, not. Creation of new capitals require presence of a large massive of slaves that consider them-selves free, and which can be used at any month, hour for their own ends in taxation; labor; extraction of aesthetic ideas represented by competitions, shows; writing, accompanied with glorification of artists with some specific abnormalities. In addition, pseudo-chosenness and illusion of superiority over others, and policy of all-permissiveness intoxicates, and Money become the indulgence against any kind of sin. The hidden idea of urbanism – monetarism, for dozens of centuries had been breaking citizens of England, France, Italy, Germany, Holland, and other similar countries through discretization of Christian valuables, and thus had destroyed such human traits as virtues and others. Plundering so typical for these countries in Middle Ages was reduced to some extend after the monetarism followers realized that such plundering can be performed via monetary policy by forming industry, and provoking creation of more and more new products. One must understand if he really needs the faith in Christ in general? Jewish Sadducee gave an idea of the further direction for moving. The Soul? Its human properties? Who would need it, if speculating on their doctrine no resurrection exists? A person cares for making (creating) Heaven on Earth for himself.

As it was noted before, the core principles of disorder in global arrangement are determined at the base of urbanism, and are contained in parasitism of the elite part of nations of some countries; and in uncontrolled population growth, which can lead our civilization, at my own opinion, to really unfavorable end.

This unfavorable end is described in the Apocalypses by St. John the Evangelist, as a warning to the human's civilization and an attempt to explain people how to search ways of civilization development based on virtues and honesty rather than to march in step with the "wicked".

1.2. Negative Aspects of Urbanism as the Ground of the Human Civilization

Negative basis of urbanism are quite distinctly described by ancient and modern writers and politicians. In all times urban values and futility of living in city rush were opposed to the rural living, and namely, living in close contact with Nature, in harmony with natural processes, change of seasons, animal life, and continuous revival of Nature after winter.

As it was already mentioned before, negative features of urbanism also include such traits of the Soul as laziness, lie, envy, desire to get anything as easy as possible, life without any expenses, possession of huge amounts of money, which can be spent for buying almost anything and anybody. At that, among other people, envy was considered as inventive power, entrepreneurial spirit, skill to persuade other people in own superiority. However, they do not take into consideration the fact that cunning and adroitness more often are activated in poor and helpless environment, in which having superiority against others, one can obtain a product (at a low price) manufactured by multiple people and sell it in other environment at a higher price. (remember glass necklaces represented to chiefs of African states, which were used by adventurous Europeans for exchanging to enormous resources). A common exploitation is assigned to the level of a “great seller” or a businessman. However such trick will never work among other similar people as members of this group are more protected – they can purchase security and prevent from any robbing or own exploitation.

Moreover, bank activity should also be referred to negative features of urbanism, as they primarily invest projects of those who exploit the poorest and unprotected groups of people. However bankers are much closer to the power-holders as bankers invest their projects, and can allow them-selves to use various financial skullduggeries for robbing, as they are protected by the army, police, and state laws. Applicable to the profittaking, the industry and agriculture are also controlled by people brought into proximity with these two groups of parasites, and as a result they implement “silent” robbing common people. Notions hidden in formulas of economists of the type “money-goods-money”, just in any other formulas are the core for profittaking from labor of millions of people, and make it possible to extract, together with authorities, their increased share from the manufactured product value. Usually, its increased depends on the power’s envy, or on how much this power is concentrated on military projects. By accustoming others to formulas of their own successful living (envy) exploiters forget that they do not only give birth to poverty only but rather stimulate growth of population among the poorest, as their calculations prevent them from generating population growth inside their own class. And population growth on the Earth is one of the key issues, which cannot be controlled by modern urbanists. For example, calculation of energy consumption by the US population with its further projection to the global population provides dramatic data concerning how voracious managers of modern civilization are.

Nevertheless, the main disadvantage of the urbanistic civilization is continuous organization of wars and chaos targeted at receiving huge incomes not by exploiting labor of poor people, but by using them as cannon fodder in useless wars, which rise without any reasonable grounds. However all wars have another more hidden sense identified above. Based on ancient traditions of priests, death of innocent people in regular wars is the sacrifice similar to sacrifices made by ancient people. To some extent such sacrifices could be replaced by during animals, birds, and so on. However, when investigating on the ground of the Jerusalem Temple, where Levites, just as the Egypt priests, conducted their services up to the present, if stay away from religious differences, and differences between today pragmatics and philosophers the contradictions between Sadducees and Pharisee make possible to say that today's world is governed by Sadducees or monetarists, who managed to exclude Levites from servicing. It seems like they consider sacrifices as the manpower resource, and the shed blood is the human's Soul (Leviticus), which contributed to increase of their capital. There is something mystical and scaring in this. It can be only expressed by a dire prediction made by the John, which regularly remembers about it within the bounds of urbanistic civilization, reflected in one of the Bible books (Apocalypse).

At the same time, pragmatic and physiological structures of the modern world in any relations form (press) state formations with inbuilt labyrinths for each object level (strata acc. to Ortega y Gasset) – a citizen of this state. As a result, “labor and light mist from the person’s sweat evaporation, catastrophic amount of heart beats, and neuron burning are for all those, who move along these labyrinths”.

People like shadows are interconnected via language and area they are connected to by their birth, and are afraid of the armour of laws, which is taken onto all governmental structures, and can scare anyone by his inability to do anything. Whereas, what is really worth being afraid of is oneself, and use faith, songs, music, rhythms, poems, and flowers to test both, the inner self and own physical body via multifaceted mirrors of times and time.

It is possible to escape from the labyrinth, especially being in mystical mist, having a some kind of a balloon in a free flight, to rise and to blow out under stress of understanding that there down is a life in the form of a labyrinth, and to realize own dullness of participation in this life. The crystallized knowledge, which is evaluated by many people according to the tonnage of read books, without understanding principle concepts of living, creativity; or understanding variants of teaching by others, can lead to nowhere. Attempts to understand things going on around oneself, discover laws and historic incidents that govern existing environment are originated from falling down, getting experience in divinity schools of “bursachivanye” (acc. to N.V. Gogol), and even after diseases or hard deception.

The same is for the pointed incomplete understanding of laws, which sense disappear in cases, when solving simple issues, regulating their amount, as well as the target selection can be solved by means of wars, egoism, and “madness” of one’s limited knowledge.

Construction of history by points – events that are determined as basic and are described multiple times, make possible for politicians, TV or Internet makers to give others a chance to catch the flow and interaction of groups of people, nations, technical systems, armament, often exclamations of “Eureka”, or evaluation of parameters of the stars and planets located 1,000 light-years away from us, by hands, eyes, and available apprehension. Catch, draw using your imagination, dream, dispute, etc. ...

Such “entertaining” of each other in various scales, thoughts, and prizes, groups of people or individuals are unable to understand the core “Taboo” of the society – to be born for the other World, which every minute experiences reduction of the people’s artistic potential as the God’s gift. Drug addiction, shame, masochism, tears, technical aspects of existence and permanent renovation make it sometimes possible to forget about things said above. Speculators, philosophers, and humanisticicians in general, round off notions up to the endless abstractions, flounder in them or admire by the deep conceptions of one word, figure, or their proportion. Nature beauty, music mystery, poems rhythmicity, combination of colors and proportions, burr of chiefs' multiplicity, which are available in opposition to the dullness of life, military motors, glamour, TV, or empty rhetoric add aberration to existing physiological stresses, when interneuron communication in brain cortex, which must be discharged in case of life ending in the form of electromagnetic radiation to another World, interrupts.

Absence of investigations of the human's brain, and its resources including the subconscious in various aspects of his thinking instruments prevents from any certainties or quasi-certainty in understanding and evaluating motions, thoughts, or bounds relative to public relations; and attempts of investigators to hold their notions to at least the brain rhythms, which are more or less obvious; and it is extremely hard to evaluate inner tensed contacts of neurons groups, and their contact with glia, and thus, prevent from providing any ground to separate traits given by parents from those given by the God.

Great amount of the household and scientific equipment working in close vicinity with the man's brain, incident effects of magnetic fields, electric stimulation or rejections in people's communication via the "declared word" modulation can lead to formation of the protein herds called Humans long before first declaration of this word.

The more words are used, the less sense they contain. The more people are on the earth, the less is the artistic potential of each of them, especially when going from one expat community to another that makes variants of people's communications to be useless.

Playing in Nostradamus and in prophets, and generating truth for all the times in general, extremely bends brain convolutions of a person struggling with the everyday life. However, sometimes the mind (Soul) falls into mystic rage, spreads, and surpasses limits of physiological borders by catching other similarly spreading mind facets of others, and experiences light admiration of the fact that definitely he is not worse than any other people. At that he goes to sleep filled with secret thoughts try to explain something to him and others he can meet in his dreams. Sometimes dreams turn into the reality, become more real than the reality itself, and stimulate the deja vu effect that repeats and mixes dreams and reality. And thus, a person get a life, which main stimulus is how to get back to the dream, which more filled with colors and various participants than existing reality ...

At that such people never feel ashamed of the fact they are somehow connected by the ropes to bushes of their dreams, to their oblivion especially, and then they lose the notion of the honesty and consciousness itself.

All the above are the element of probable barbarizing of a person among large massive of city inhabitants or inside the so-called urbanism civilization.

1.3. Basic Elements of the Human's Soul Having Priority in Urbanistic Civilization

Inner intentions of a human, being subjective or hidden, are projected to the outer reality as definite certain solutions. Inner generation of intentions can be determined by the “divine spark” or genetic parameters of the human’s physiological structure, raising, environment, and multiple other effects on a person via laws and changes in the society, transformation of one state into another, such stressed situations as hunger, was, foreign environment, reveal of the inner Ego before the outer world, as well as its reaction. Such inner generation of decisions, its real nature, is covered with lots of layers of mystical interpretations, and is sometimes called the Human’s Soul, in which inner motivation of the supposed and real actions can be observed, and reflected in eyes, words, voice pattern, motions of hands and legs, facial and body mobility, hair, glance, neuronal structure of cortex, and the reception system. And again, almost everything can be expressed in such words as kindness, honesty, consciousness respect to other people that are positive features of the Soul.

However, there are negative features such as laziness, lie, attraction to pleasures, deception, and willing to parasitize. Currently, all these features have lost their definite meanings and understanding of their borders due to their mixing, and play-acting in societies of politicians, mass media representatives, writers, poets, and many other famous people, who sell and transform positive features of their souls into negative features, and thus, destroy themselves and others. But all the above contains energy wrapped in positive traits, which is irradiates by negative features of the Soul outside, to the society that leads to significantly terrible consequences in the form of the lie, violation, and so on.

We can examine the human's Soul from various aspects. However, in this work we are going to investigate Soul elements in both categories – positive, like kindness, honesty, hard-working, respect to others, tenderness, mercy, and other; and negative – laziness, cunning, absence of honesty, indifference to other's sorrows, cheating, deception, and other similar elements. The good and the bad are seemed to be decoded easily, as reading of spiritual and classical literature helps to reveal hidden and evident struggle of positive and negative elements of souls of various historically significant and common people. Energetics of features of positive and negative soul elements has a high potential in case of its implementation in the society. Moreover, combination of the peoples groups with similar Soul features makes it possible to enforce this potential, or bring the society to victories or defeats. As an example, we can take Germany at the period of Hitler, when peoples union based on superiority of one nation put humanity into catastrophe. There can be other examples taken from ancient times and Middle Ages, such as part of Joan of Arc in the Anglo-French war. However, it should be noted that soul features described above do not include physical implementation of these elements, which were the aim of searches conducted by Aristotle and other ancient speculators. And if in those ancient times negative features of the Soul were implemented in robbing, indifference to problems of other people, and so on going along the time scale, the closer to our time we see, the more distinct is implementation of the Soul negative elements implementation in the form of capitalism created as a system for “silent” robbing other people as an exchange to a piece of bread and entertainment.

From the earliest time cities and towns constructed in the form of a fortress learned to use such Soul negative features as the lie, cunning, dishonest and so on via instruments of exchange – money, as well as the instruments for money changing to bills, and shares. That was especially popular among money hangers in the Jerusalem Temple for paying shekel tax and other taxes, and traders in Phoenician cities (Carthage), who widely used honesty of other people, especially rural population. One should note that cunning is often suggested as a positive feature of the Soul, for example Odysseus from Homer poems; it stipulated creation of an aphorism “Beware of Greeks bearing gifts”.

The city being a society had been forming and keeps on forming its valuables, which hide its primary priorities – “silent” robbery, injustice, lie, exploitation of other’s labor force, and laziness. Ancient law-makers of cities of Babylon, Egypt, Greece, and Rome continuously struggled with these, so-called negative processes using laws, and almost every time became winners.

Victory of the Soul negative features was especially clear during development of construction designs and further cities functioning, however, their domination can be somehow explained by a quantitative factor, i.e. according to the following formulae: the more people collaborate together the more they get possibilities to avoid social labor, and thus, they receive more time for “actuating” mechanisms of the Soul negative features. In few words, “quantity transforms into quality” (Hegel), here amount of people united into towns and cities – fortresses leads, in addition to positive effects, such as protection against various enemies, elements of comfort, and a possibility to help each other, to creation of various negative features described above.

Moreover, the power – management authorities, which very often turned into authorities that manage not only cities, but also states (for example, the Rome) received special meaning. Authorities created as the management of the property protection, continuous preparation to wars, education, and rehabilitation of cities population, very often in case of their election or accroachment by tyrants, turned due to greedy of the confidents, into tools of injustice, predatory wars or cruel exploitation of population of their own cities and states. They applied almost similar violence they addressed to the enemies, to their own people, especially in civil conflicts. Struggle for power in cities and countries opened the way for receiving profits due to demagogy (lie), fraud, and killing, that is the most negative features of the human's Soul.

In most cases such negative features defeat positive features because a just, honest person, who lives according to laws, work hard, and wins his daily bread in the sweat of his brow. He has no time to evaluate the Good or the Bad, as even the clear Good was replaced by the Bad with light colors of Good. Energy of Evil, as a spiritual characteristic, typically, has the enormous potential an urban environment, which, in most cases exceeds the potential of the Good. Conspiracy and unification of powers targeted at receipt of public product through skullduggery and frauds are mainly related to the worst people, who set the worst elements of the Soul to the root of their lives. People with positive features are typically distributes and hope for the justice of authorities and kindness of their neighbors...

Summarized notions of the Soul selected during a very long time, such as equality, fraternity, democracy, etc., consist of two or three elements of the Soul, or are derived from their meaning with lots of inaccuracies that cause their indistinctness. As a result, such notions become public urbanistic notions, and sometimes fully lose their initial meaning.

Formation of the urban living style placed into urbanism as the mass ideology, its basic elements of the human's Soul such as laziness, cunning, deception, parasitism, and fraud, which carriers are primarily ruling classes (groups seized the power) – bankers, money-lenders, large shareholders who form false concepts of economic living aimed at extracting resources that determine education sufficiency for public and quality of manpower (slaves). Creation of such notions as capitalism in cooperation with proletariat (Marks) is the main achievement of urbanism pragmatists expressed in ideas of communism represented as a ground of the modern civilization.

In the meantime, the slavery (person's mancipation) was finally transformed under free travel of the human resource “from one piece of cheese to another” that it's a person was transformed into a “free” slave. As it turned out, proletariat power can be easily transformed into indefinite forms of capitalism, like Sweden socialism or the communist regime in China, as the author supposes all that is one and the same derivative of urbanism. Is it possible for the urbanism as the human civilization, transform into any derivative containing positive features of the human's Soul? It is quite a rhetorical question. Of course, not.

There are some evidences to prove it.

If try to describe a birth of a human, people, or societies applicable to actions or time duration using standard rational formulas is so improbable, so having evaluated and understood that perception of each individual is submersed inside the irrational way of designating several episodes that had place in life of this individual. At that all structural items of living lose their outlines. People's receptors testing their deficiencies, envelope with their tentacles and stick to the individual's brain; and very few people are capable to escape from them. With the course of time the society gradually conquers the space by placing nets with such "sticking ropes". It is almost impossible to escape as the society, according to the following suppositions, possesses all characteristics of a crowd including a set of members with the maximal volume of negative.

One story tells about a lost child. A lot of people were looking for him, and after he was found, people surrounded him and due to the common fatigue, they shouted on the child, and their parents using abusive language. The next scene should be represented in details. The child's face is becoming red, and his parents' – gray. Mother babbled excuses and gratitude for the help. The child was overfilled with understanding the he "is just lonely in the whole world", yet he was unable to cry. Faces of his rescuers that were more frightening than Bosch's pictures in dynamics of changes and physiological grimaces were scaring the child. The sky around them became suddenly dark, and the lightning powerfully struck several times. That was how the child obtained understanding of "the good".

Moreover, we can tell how the evil came to Joseph son of Jacob, and then turned into the Good for the entire family of patriarch in Egypt. This Bible example is meaningful, yet the evil committed by Joseph's brothers can be detached from events happened after, and in this case the evil will remain the evil. One can investigate global meaning of the happened, and in this case it is necessary to mention about the Providence, which saves separate people who contribute their share into both, significant and negligible events on the Earth. Thus, repainting of the Bad into the Good and vice versa has place everywhere in the society, and sometimes it is almost impossible to separate one from another.

While considering the issue related to the goal of the surrounding world creation, as well as the birth of a human as a rational being taking into consideration the history of the viewed time period free from distortions or politic interests, one can see that it is extremely hard to determine this goal, and establish the part of the humanity is almost impossible. Speculations, and few clarifications represented in papers of the famous authors only make it possible to tell about certain limits in mental capabilities of a human. Explanations that only rough unsmoothed language often full of controversies and polyphonic opinions can be used for interpreting world order concepts to make it understandable imply that anything should be discussed maximally carefully and cautiously. To tell and to define something is extremely risky for each other person. And more often, a group of people or a crowd is that who generally makes more specific words, which were not pronounced directly, it is them, who solve issues of the state and the world order development.

Impulsive of subconscious, which ideas reveal at a specific point of the word shell produced by the crowd, can suddenly define some code word by someone's unexpected phrase. The directional pattern of the brain's electromagnetic radiation has the form of a sphere, and when in a crowd radiation from many people can merge into something united possessing strong affection properties. This can explain the "crowd effect" and its consequences – urbanism with their negative features. And this rises a next question – what is the crowd and its actions – is it the progress or the regress?

These bounds of extreme uncertainty, which can be compared with information about the outer space, without application of criticism to the laws of this order, and the survey parameters formulas, and without a deep sight inside himself as a subject, and individual can easily fail to recognize him. And thus, there is even a higher probability to fail with all other described above!

Super-generation of modern distorted notions displays that with the existence of humans in this new time in capitals and large cities, negative features of the Soul obtained so tremendous uncontrolled wild forms of global corporations, banking systems, and mass media giants participating in global transformations of states and the world in general, so no features of the urbanistic civilization rehabilitation can be discovered.

Almost absolute pragmatism based on “our souls are where our money is” leads human civilization to the no-return point. At least the existing reliance on capitalism, market notions, inhumanity, and pseudo-selectiveness totally hides the Soul behind the first notions, and Calvinism, in its extreme point of understanding selectiveness without any logics of formation and grounding, is mainly based on the Souls negative features, and thus humiliates essence of Christianity.

1.4. Excessiveness and toxicity of the Research and Technology Product in Terms of the Urbanistic civilization

Generation of knowledge in terms of the urbanistic order makes it possible for the riskful living in cities with high concentration of energetics, transport, and sewerage – all together called “conveniences”, to constructively suggest people a not interconnected public living in groups free from understanding each other. It is especially typical of the American version of urbanism. Having detached into the branch of “economic religions” and creating churches of all its possible variations, they, being the theorists of the modern chaotic urbanism exclude them all from understanding fundamentals of Christianity using idea of selectiveness for “money-bags” rather than for the name and the image of Jesus Christ. They draw everyone nearer to concepts of exchange, bank, financial instruments, shares, etc. having isolated humans from spirituality as the base of positive features of the human’s Soul. Various technological novelties such as telegraph agencies, email, and information control means made a person lose their inner own world, and turned him into a slave with the “helmet of freedom” on his head that controls each person individually according to the “specific life schedule”.

This is why any brain and mind surveys, as well as possibilities that can be disclosed under such control over a person or people free from any criticism of the good and the bad; or creation of a “technical” brain are extremely dangerous. Only after appearing of the mixed-type nations, like robots and controlled people capable to achieve lots of labor deeds others will realize the draw-back of the fact that by creating and multiplying through digging deep inside the ground for manufacturing all varieties of products the humanity can lose its creative potential and sense of living. And there will be no one to determine the Good and the Evil.

Scientists and technology-connected businessmen turned into the Guru, who support confusing people with various theories, enlargement of mental outlook, and creation of pseudo-truth. Groups of scientists obtaining endless ratings participate in managing states and the world by means of indistinct theories, and support to each other, always remembering about their wallets.

“Dark matter”, atom’s models, specific theory of relativity, colliders, endless talks and articles concerning the Universe, and so on. Thus, an opinion of one or two persons turns into arguments, about which the unskilled majority has no time to think of; however, mechanisms of mass media spread them all around the world. It is especially typical for “information” scientists that serve authorities and inflict mental damage to tremendous amount of people.

Other scientists working in the real activity branch create for corporations and government lots of novelties aimed at facilitating labor, recreation, or national security, they produce useful products as it may seem, however, hardly someone can accurately evaluate consequences of applying such products by a person or human population in general.

Nevertheless, in terms of today’s capitalism, as one of the monetary economics form, each invention has much more chances to be used to their detriment rather than to the benefit of people.

All and any developed technologies can be used by engineers for manufacturing “products” for their own degeneration and “positive” bashing, in case of breaking rules of the urbanism.

The time management via electronic systems makes it possible to shift biological rhythms, and thus effect life duration. Mass media always helped to control free slaves through creating a range of “obscurities” with distribution of perception, in some cases with dissipation of its notions meanings of represented news, and information in general. Goebbels’s speeches are subject of the embryonic sophistication of sense and the level including mental valuables if compared with the today’s effect of electronic systems to the mind and life of a human.

Scientific and technological inventions lead to creation of the “butter mountains and wine lakes” made from the pseudo-products full of sweeteners and aroma compounds hiding main almost waste products (similar to cats and gods food). The formulae of today's monetarists – “only living on the edge is real living”. While artificially generated catastrophes, plagues, viruses, and infections are distributed at the level of readiness to apply bacteriologic weapon, which fact still makes it possible for the chosen to control multi-billions population. Laws development and application for the sake of business pushes the entire civilization to the razor edge. It is especially true for artificial products, cloning, use of the gen engineering as the children “construction bricks” game, reduction of oxygen content in air during its burning by aircrafts and spaceships, creation of ozone holes, with simultaneous destructions of woods and lots of animals, which determine variability of the living world. All the above complete the negative image of the scientific-technical “development” effect on approach to the “peaceful” end of the capitalism– monetarism and the human civilization existence.

In general it is possible to say about the science “toxicity” for all living beings existing in the modern life of a human. It is obvious that any positive achievement in scientific researches has a multifaceted negative result either, which leads to a probability of disappearing not only the “pastures of Heaven” on the Earth, but also the life itself, including existence of human as a biological species. In addition to fumes from factories tubes, toxicity of knowledge and technological breakthroughs breaks the person by removing him away from sense and solemnity, and well as by reducing positive features of his Soul that were discussed before: honesty, tenderness, and humanism in general, which even more induces negative elements of urbanism.

And monetarism via the power the technological achievements transforms urbanism in the most cruel system of suppression for not only the person’s individuality, but also the capability of living for many millions of people.

1.5. Prospects and terms of the urbanistic civilization existence

Development of the urbanistic base of the civilization towards the severe competition, humiliation of the controlled groups of people, and continuous intensification of processes in people's lives aimed at increasing potential of each person using negative motivations and similar Soul elements or taking into consideration the human's psychology for centuries retained generations of various nations in physical and mental tension due to the survival possibility issues. The core mechanisms of such development are initiation of catastrophes, wars, everyday-life deficiencies, infections, nation transfer, alcoholism, drug abuse, formation of "dog-eat-dog" situations, and other similar processes covered by a blanket of technological and space wonders, or merging sexes into a one united creature according to the Plato's idea. Nevertheless, the civilization "running" under such conditions faces a wall of the Earth's population growth restrictions, limitation of resources, educational feedback reducing mental potential of each human up to the level of the one who controls or manages at a definite moment of time. If such potential of an individual exceeds defined limits, society conditions formed by monetarists must “help” him or her to “low such potential to the standard level” though burning in the fire, releasing head from the body, or placing into mental hospitals. The positive trends in urbanistic civilization development include a possibility to perform information attacks that provide “smothering” of military catastrophes’ and natural disasters’ dimensions or amount of died people to some extend; as well as to discuss issues of the global justice formation, which will be able to reduce negative trends related to disproportional distribution of food products, services, and energy components.

It can also be noted that nations who inhabit the Scandinavian Peninsula, Turkic steppes, jungles, or deserts of Africa, and possess such features as ease in communication, honesty, respect to aged people, and historical tenderness regularly pierced into pervert cities of the Europe, Egypt, or the Near East. As a result, the urbanism, its dissipation, and dishonesty, actually almost always crushed positive elements and Soul valuables of the arrived nations. Such processes are very similar to mathematical multiplication: “plus and plus give the plus, and plus with minus give minus”, that is when a positive society meets another positive society – their merging creates positive effect, while if negative features of an urbanism based society are considered as positive features for another society, they result into negative system, it can be both a city or a state; and there is no difference in who is a winner and who is a loser (provided such merging had place during a military campaign): for example, Macedonia that lived in the positive aura within its own borders, mainly worked in agricultural sector, and had positive features of the state order, conquered Greece, Far East, and Egypt government and under control of Alexander Makedonsky why being brought up by Aristotle easily obtained the worst negative elements of urbanism, such as dissipation, crookedness, lie, cunning, and social parasitism. Similar to the abovesaid Germanic tribes conquered edges of the Rome Empire, however they easily lost everything they ever had.

Except for the Christianity with its positive achievements and positive evaluation of the Soul features spread within the borders of the Rome Empire, the Germanic tribes would not have been able to reserve positive elements cementing their society for so long. The city and greed for gain had been breaking all the best in the Germanic tribes for very long time. A burst of people's wrath against urbanistic ideas in Germany, Switzerland, and France under leadership of M. Luther, Calvin, or Zwingli was the attempts to destroy negative urbanistic fundamentals, some which were accepted by the Catholic Church. Special revolt was triggered by the sale of indulgences – papers excusing all and any sins. However after Luther met representatives of the trade and industry groups, dukes and princes of Germany, he formulated a phrase, which can be pronounced as “Mind is a dog that should be kept under the bench...” And that implies that sensibility and kindness are not the ground for constructing a “progressive” society. Capitalism being the ground for monetarism was already accelerating and became a winner by leaving aside sentimentality and positive features creating inside the Soul. Capitalism was looking for a structure of its development that would be convenient for the use; and it managed in this search. This final version of the search is called the “city”.

While examining the human civilization development at the current stage under terms of urbanization, the prevailing authorities should determine the time period such civilization can exist under various ways of its functioning. For example, one of such ways is establishment of global laws and formation of global government. Never a secret one, which would base on one country only, for instance, USA, but a common for all governments, and probably established by means of UN that will make it possible to determine resources and food quotes for every man in the world. This way supposes preserving the capitalism as the ground of civilization, yet having changed of its form.

It is obvious that such established government must also form birth-rate quotes, quotes for industrial production, as well as for the living space of the states, which will be obliged to obey the “Head Government”. It will also be responsible for pacifying all and everyone even by means of some force actions. In this case stimulation of the individual’s development should be performed, where possible, by getting a specific consumption and education rank. To do that all population of the Earth should obtain some definite rank since birth, as well as a possibility to obtain a specific quote for education set by such rank.

Having cancelled states’ competition by the suggested way, the global government must promote capitalistic competition among corporations, companies, or universities by means of determination of taxes on consuming resources, water, air, or food per each employee, within encouraging introduction of robot substituting people on hard works. Health centers must provide similar services within the entire world, however with consideration of the birth-rate reduction in total. The global government must also separate people according to the life-time for each rank. At that such global government can be elected by lot from representatives of all regions among people with a specifically determined rank.

The expected existence period of such reconstruction of the urbanistic civilization can amount to several hundred years under terms of the optimistic scenario and optimal transformations.

1.6. Variants for the modern civilization lifetime enlargement

Variants of the civilization transformations described above may be not new, however even their implementation can fail due to resistance of some countries on ideological, religious, environmental, or any other grounds, it is especially typical for the states possessing the nuclear, chemical, or bacteriological weapon, or the great human resource. Probably, many power representatives still did not realize that the Earth is a considerably small sphere with very limited area and resources, and it is the high time to make important decisions relative to the further “preservation” of the existing position for the humanity elite and all nations.

There can be selected a variant of formation similar to that of the “New Atlantis” on a preliminary selected ground elite land plot (island) with a powerful military protection, establishment of the own specific regime and performing procedure aimed at reduction of the other states power. To do that it would be necessary to transfer all hi-tech manufacturing to the “New” Atlantis by so-called “burning” all the advanced technologies of other countries.

By developing this New Atlantis only and regulating situation in other parts of the world using the up-to dated technologies, the “chosen” inhabitants can and will significantly exceed other people in intellect, industry, and public health. In fact, the other countries having performed the situation evaluation, can start wars by attacking this New Atlantis. At the same time, such way of rescuing the civilization can be called the “return to the Heavens” for the chosen however with unpredictable consequences.

Another, the more fantastic variant is a travel of the elite part of population together with the advanced industry to the Moon or the Mars, with further establishment of admissible living activities. This variant is also the optimal in the case if there is any global catastrophe on the Earth; as then existence of some the biological material part from Earth together with the human species will be saved in the Solar system.

In addition to the abovesaid to save the human population and the environment there can be formed underwater cities for moving large amounts of people, industrial sector, and life-supporting systems there.

The last two variants will make it possible to preserve people at least as some “Professor Dowell’s heads” (Belyaev) and nature elements in case of a space object attack to the Ground, or as a solution of negative consequences after some armed conflicts (e.g., nuclear catastrophe), as well as earthquakes, volcanic activity, or loss of the Earth’s atmosphere.

CHAPTER 2

CONCEPT OF THE GRADUAL TRANSFER FROM THE URBANIS- TIC CIVILIZATION TO ITS MORE STABLE

2.1 Plan Of The Current Civilization Urbanistic Order Dismounting

As the previous chapter substantiated fatality of the current civilization existence under the urbanism concepts, here we will attempt to suggest a plan of dismantling this structure formed in the negative elements of the people's desires and his Soul. Seems like the things and principles had been forming by centuries are pretty hard to be broken, however it is really easy to do it psychologically when one realizes that anyway everything will be destroyed by a chaotic gesture of those who understood the sense of authorities – the top bankers of that very country, or those who are just unsatisfied with the current situation on resources distribution in various countries. Thus, the author suggests that today's leaders should develop a plan of rather modification than a destruction of the urbanistic civilization with simultaneous construction of a new civilization supporting wider population distribution, birth-rate reduction, and so on as it was represented in the text above.

First, to launch developing of such plan it is necessary to consolidate elite of the top-rated states and determine actions necessary to implement this plan.

Second, it is necessary to adopt principle documents of politic reorganization of all states, and graduate and full cancellation of all and any country borders.

Third, it is necessary to form mobile force troops (army) to liquidate probable strikes and riots in any point of the Earth.

Forth, it is necessary to establish the temporal global government that will control all transformations and people's living on Earth with differentiation of control functions in various regions and at various levels applicable to the situation.

Fifth, it is necessary to develop the Order of ranks for all population of the Earth depending on the intellect level and positive qualities providing a possibility to moving to a higher rank due to the importance his or her actions and society weight.

Sixth, it is necessary to arrange the global financial system based on the conception of an interest-free money loans for projects required for a specific region of the Earth.

Seventh, it is desirable to construct a new educational system, form a commission that will determine sufficiency of available knowledge and level of scientific achievements, and adjust them towards the reasonable application, including evaluation of “wicked” tendencies and a probability of their use under new terms.

Eighth, establish the election system based on the “by-lot concept”, which will be used for annual election of the Earth Government with the authorities’ job rotation principle.

Ninth, determine “regions of sufficiency” on the Earth with further establishment of specific requirements to each of them based on the population amount, required resources, and amount of authorities.

Tenth, establish a system of education and a language that will be common for the entire planet. With the time duration all national languages would turn into “family languages”.

Eleventh, create the “positive control” system for managing events in each “region of sufficiency”.

Twelfth, substantiate and if possible, cultivate a unified religion described above taking into consideration the long-term period of adaptation to everything new so typical for people, and to exclude formation of any cults and discrepancies in its interpretation.

2.2. Characteristics of a “region of sufficiency” of a new civilization

This section provides examination of the “region of efficiency” core characteristics. Its main characteristics are distributional living of people within the space dedicated to them including land, water, mountainous and deserted areas, and quantity of people (families) living in a such separated region. In addition to that each “region of efficiency” must obtain specific resource quotes. The distributed living must be determined using a special scheme developed for each specific region. The core idea is that each settlement should not have more than 5 ÷ 10 of individual houses, for example, similar constructions. Interconnection between such buildings can be provided by means of the roads, air travel, and electric communication systems. Power supply, public health and education systems should be developed so to take account of interconnection with a great number of such settlements. No capitals or other affluent cities. Settlement inhabitants would work with the ground, resources extraction, and processing applicable to needs of the regions established by the central global government.

Resources sufficiency for the region should be determined based on the people's population and be planned by the "Centre of resource supply" connected with the global government.

People's everyday living should be simple and not aggravated with any choleric actions of so-called "uncommon people", which are so valuable in our today's civilization. "Convulsions" of such people represented as some "nonstandard thinking" must be normalized and, just as the whole life of regions' inhabitants, regulated by the "Living Regulations", which should contain everything set by the laws adopted by the global government.

Ranks (their level) assigned by citizens of such regions should be given based on the loyalty to the Regulations, competence knowledge, and their participation in the "region of sufficiency" management. Heads of such region should also be elected for 1 ÷ 3 years.

Education expenditures per each inhabitant of such “region of sufficiency” should be determined on the ground of the principle of “sufficiency” for everything that can be required for a person.

2.3. Reconstruction of the religious (spiritual) order during civilization fundamentals transformation

As it was already said before, without spiritual basis forming Souls components, which are ranked by public priorities, a human, being a psychophysical object with certain algorithms of the neuron-glia fields' structures of brain, will not exist. The history experienced a number of various religious concepts (systems) some of which fundamentally dominated in states' living and exist till now. The basic variant of Christianity (prior to 1054), being a complicated system of conducting everyday rituals, a great number of saints, or monks, is also the basis of the spiritual life for the most states. With the development of capitalistic relations, in 1517 M. Luther and his followers used the "thesis" propaganda idea to simplify religious fundamentals of Christianity. "Economic efficiency" of the church adjustment, availability and possibility for each person to address to God, made it possible for the Christian revolutionists to solve two tasks – separate from the dictate of Rome – the city sunk in sins, its negative affections; and release additional time for themselves and their assistants for further technological transformation of the world and personal enrichment. Their (protestants’) opinions coincided or came extremely close to position of Sadducees (Hebrew cult), which does not believe that died people will resurrect at some certain moment of time and, probably, having been transformed by centuries this cult developed the monetarism concept, which later conquered the whole business world and has been still governing it till now. Due to technological fundamentals development travel vectors of the monetarism and the capitalism coincided somewhere in the 16th century, and further have been continuing their moving united till now. The Catholic Church, first, dropped a little behind; however, today it turned into the church supporting monetarists. It has also become one of the monetarism ideologists.

Different aspects of understanding the “chosenness” by various reformed churches all come to the same thing: “the chosen one is that who has much money”. And it does not matter at all how he or she obtained them, how many people (souls) did he or she destroyed during earning his capital.

Within the period from 1054 till today concepts of the Orthodox Church experienced some transformation, however they still are based on the ancient ceremonies, as well as on the mystical understanding of the Trinity, the Blessed Virgin, or saints. To my opinion, this religion is much closer to understanding the essence of the distributed civilization. Another religion is the Islamism, which core ideas are represented in the Koran and its legends. Islamism is a younger religion and continuously increases its human potential that is dynamic yet limited on affecting technological aspects of the civilization order.

Buddhism, Shintoism, Daoism, or Confucianism that are based on absolutely different religiosity principles, are more often connected with national traits of corresponding states; however during last years they regularly participate in modification of the global technological relations.

Religions represented above, their connection to states, especially to the technological reconstruction of the civilization should elaborate the unified spiritual power necessary for the both, today's civilization during its reconstruction, and the future formation with the aim to eliminate any negative features of the existing civilization, such as population growth, technological-industrial overload, resources deficiency, i.e., remove all those discrepancies, which lead to the global consequences of the nuclear, biology, or chemical affection of the modern civilization that can destroy everyone.

Indeed, reconstruction of multiple religious spiritual settings of various nations is a very complicated task; nevertheless it is a critical component of such reconstruction improving its viability. It is either obvious that such reconstruction should be performed during two or three generations after making a decision concerning dismounting fundamentals of the urbanistic civilization. However the new issue that arose in grounding concept of the new global religion that will be able to touch heart of every person, and restrain even the most vile thoughts of people, is understanding that the Nature must be the base of the everyday living and life of people. This concept should be developed during the nearest years and be adopted on the global conference (Congress, convocation) of religious communities, as well as also adopted by a global authority, probably by UN of the global government, which must be already formed by that time. According to this concept the core basic settings are the honesty, agreeableness, respect to each other, and other positive features of the human's Soul will be the basis of the new civilization.

Probably the reader of this paper would smile looking on these lines: indeed, the global history is quite familiar with attempts to implement similar ideas, for example to establish fraternity, equality by the French revolution; establish equality in economics and everyday life by October revolution in Russia, in both cases such "modification" ended by the guillotine, or civil wars with death of millions ordinary people.

However, the suggested transfer from multiple various religious ideas to the one and the unified one requires unification of people's thinking as presence of various settings of various existing religions lead not to the nonstandard thinking but rather to local and evil wars that destroy countries and separating nations. And, if such unification is performed gradually and reasonably, with stepped affecting people minds by means of TV, and mass media, stimulation of such transfer should be performed through ranging and supporting "pioneers" of the new religious existence.

Conduct of surveys in developing religion's concepts settings requires establishment of a special center that would form public opinion and the concept itself. Idea of religion based partyness must be definitely eliminated. All and any competitiveness and discussion related to religion should have inner nature to eliminate risk of wars only, and can be maintained only among people generating such fundamental concept.

Issue of new religious settings is either acute due to the fact that currently the Western Europe, USA, Canada, and most other well-developed catholic countries lose their religiosity, which is gradually substituted by subcultures similar to polytheism of the Ancient Rome. At that, the Islamic states move towards the more radical variants of the Islamism, which cause a number of tragedies both inside such countries and outside them. Dogmatic struggle of the Sunni and Shiite branches of Islamism also aggravate situation in the Near East and the Euro-Asiatic continent.

In the meantime eastern religions of such states as China, India, and other adjacent countries, knowledge can be obtained through nuances of communicating with adherent of different faith that reduces any possible international conflicts. Taking into consideration the fact of multi-religiosity typical for many countries, the profit-makers often provoke critical situations in such states. Monetarists' policy, namely increase of the human resources and the "divide et impera" motto stipulating extraction of the "gold" currently possess the principle spiritual value. Majority of such conflicts, under change of technological and economic orders can be settled if a new unified religion is introduced, first, without destructing existed religious settings and their replacement with new global concepts defined in this paper as the civilization of sufficiency. Gradually during decades proper accentuation by mass media and international meetings of leaders can unify opinions of many and many nations.

2.4. Formation of the antiurbanism philosophy

To implement the large-scale activity on preservation of humans as one of the biological species with neutralization of negative tendencies loaded to the urbanism and constructed on the worst features of the Soul, it is necessary to develop a philosophy or at least its ground, which would make it possible to substantiate all approaches of society transformation within the global scale; as well as explain the target of such transformation – why humanity needs a new world and a new civilization.

One of the main principles of this new philosophy is that the “evil” bases of the capitalism and the urbanism using negative Soul’s features such as the lie, fraud, dishonesty, no decent society can be created; as the Evil is the foundation of this “building”, which forms the extremely unstable construction, and replacement of such urbanism “foundation” with its philosophy of phantasmal profit deception requires tremendous efforts.

Another core thesis relates to the economy, it says that uncontrolled growth of the planet's population and limited resources can put the nations to inability of solving simple tasks related to everyday living support. Here, it should be noted that uncontrolled population growth is a threat that can cause ethnic alterations in various countries, which in their turn can provoke global war and death of the population majority with radioactive contamination of the residual part of the human civilization. And who knows, probably that can become "a ground" for forming a new organic oil-bearing layer from the residuals of human flesh for the next post-war peoples' or humanoids' formation.

Next, is the excessive prevalence of technological achievements applied in household activity or national defense, which are concentrated in hands of the urbanism followers; and the latter can easily lose control over the complicated technical systems in case of any serious crisis, which will turn cities into waste landfills, and probably, to corruption of industry or goods exchange.

The first thesis gives a clear idea of the fact that the energy of the Soul's negative features has the both the induced and contemplated features (elements) of the Soul, and those that can arise under new circumstances, especially under effect of urbanism, from the secret corners of the Soul, which negative potential cannot be properly assessed for today.

The second thesis reveals that the urbanism "sees" the only one way to reduce the population growth that is elimination of the "waste" part of the Earth's population using wars, conflicts, chemical, bacteriological, or other ways of physical affection.

And based on the third thesis it can be concluded that the more complicated are the technological appliances around the civilization "top managers", the larger is the risk that energy of their actions will have destructive nature, and thus, the more dangerous and the higher is the probability of implementation of such actions.

These three core theses explain the dead-end for the current civilization development. While evaluating chances of existence of such civilization for more 100 years, it should be noted that complicity of its technological arrangement will rise by tens, or even hundreds times, that is the mess of stone jungles would cover the entire planet, and groups of rascals would search and hunt for the food, clean water, or clean air. All that, or better say, elements of such future are already represented in so-called “disaster films” made by USA, Europe or Russia.

All the described above leads to the simple ideas of a necessity to search other probable ways of structuring the human civilization; and especially taking into consideration the key points declaring that the humanity, and all its existence can be based on positive features (elements) of the Soul only.

2.5. Organizational structure required for the stable development of the new civilization

In fact, development of a new organizational structure of a new human civilization does not require many efforts, as all principle provisions related to the structural units were already disclosed. However, there is one key issue considering the necessity to interconnect them (structural units) with the aim to implement their main function – stable existence of the human civilization free from barbarous wars, crises, and feeling a slave, that is to be free in his or her actions. The various state orders were described along ago in works of Plato (Socrates) and Aristotle, who displayed disadvantages of various systems in every detail; and the large countries historical experience of the two and half thousand years long was described in various historic papers of great philosophers and writers. Nevertheless, it should be noted that Plato (Socrates) considered the state order based on the positive features of the Soul rather than the urbanistic concepts based on negative features of the Soul. However, the history, as it was already said before, selected the capital interpretation of urbanism represented by the monetarism. At that legislations of all well-developed countries starting from the 17th century always declared equality of all and everyone before the God and the state in fundamental laws or constitutions.

De-facto, the economic side prevailed all laws, and groups of lawyers and mass media continuously supported and generated categories of notions and definitions, which were convenient to them and the most “predatory” part of population only.

Thus, the authorities of the global government must regulate economic component of living so no one could fail in temptation to get more than it is allowed according to the new civilization Regulations.

It should be noted that the abovesaid concept was already realized in the Soviet Union, under the “to each according to his needs” motto, however, in some distorted manner, and soviet version of urbanism, when a city and its products prevailed the village, finally corrupted the idea to create a new advanced civilization. The war between a city and a village, namely, the old-style living of peasants, who were the source of national positive features of spirit, was especially visible during the surplus appropriation system period when armed authorities seized all products created by the village without any compensations. Moreover, to legalize further so-called “purchase” or better, extraction of agricultural products on prices that had no real economic argumentation, the powers established kolkhozes (communal farms) and sovkhozes (state owned farm), which were governed by cities under wraps of the party and leading role of proletariat.

In fact, the revolutionists planned to attract the proletariat as a layer that “has nothing except for its targets” to rearrange the world order for the new civilization. Trotsky and other revolutionists already understood that the capitalism by that time had already revealed his greedy and indifference to other people in a volume, which put its existence in question. However leader of New Russia were planning to construct a new communist civilization on the same “rotten” base called Urbanism. Moreover, the proletariat is also the urbanism derivative. After that all economic transformations in USSR were based on village exploitation by the city and distorted understanding of the Soul’s positive features, which resulted in corruption of a large and powerful state in 1991 (nevertheless, it should be noted that by the mid 80ies of the last century, villages experiences moderate life improvement). Further on the urbanists with English accent including Pugachev – Yetltsin had won. As a result the experiment on constructing the new world failed. Moreover, determination and adjustment of the organization structure of the new civilization and cancellation of capitalism or urbanism can take for decades, and can require a very long work on alternating key settings and laws of the society and a state.

2.6. Determination of the Earth's optimal population amount

Already in 80ies of the last century the globalists provided that the Earth population must not exceed 1 billion people. According to their calculations, existing resources would hold out for such amount of people for 200 ÷ 300 years only. Whereas, if a resource consumption per capita established in USA is applied to 1 billion of people of the Earth, all planets resources would hold out for several decades only. But all these are the theories only as the Earth's population for now is already more than 7 billion people. Currently, the population growth in Africa reduced significantly; in the Arabian world, for which the population increase is the most typical, experiences numerous wars that slow down such increase, while India and China continue to enlarge their population. The similar situation is for such countries as Indonesia, Ceylon, Bangladesh, and Pakistan. The Southern Africa either displays significant population growth if compared with the Northern Africa.

What can be done in this situation? How to reduce the population, by propaganda or apply force?

These are the key issues. However the authority consider the capitalism, as the form of the urbanism, as a source of the profit only, and thus, it is still impossible to effectively solve the population optimization issue. And it is well-known that capitalism is the deadend for the urbanistic civilization development.

As it was already said before, to provide Earth's population optimization, it is necessary to change the world order structure: first, to establish (form) the global government, as it was already suggested, by means of UN governance. Next, consequently eliminate state borders and establish new territorial unit called "region of sufficiency", and develop special birth-rate and resource quotes for each certain region. Under such approach gradually, Earth's population will reduce. Education in each territorial unit must be set on a sufficiently high level based on the formula: the higher is education the lower is the birth-rate. In addition, it is necessary to perform gradual dismounting of the urbanism and transformation of the existing civilization into various new forms described above.

CHAPTER 3

FUNDAMENTALS FOR THE NEW CIVILIZATION CONSTRUCTION

3.1. Concept of the human spiritual motivations inside the new civilization

The previous chapters offered a way for eliminating shortages of the urbanistic civilization by means of dismantling the urbanism material base – large cities, which would be necessary to perform in various countries; as well as suggested construction of a new civilization based on the positive motivations of a person as well as breeding those qualities, which theoretically will bring the civilization to the idea of sufficient consumption, or “areas of sufficiency” free from the basic “sins” of capitalistic societies currently existing on the Earth.

As the city is the core base for monetarists and their followers, and the ground of their philosophy, lie, laziness, dishonesty, fraud, or social parasitism, which are always almost the object of the pride especially for the people who obtained tremendous capitals. They move through the distribution of national taxes, resources exploitation, or use of technological breakthroughs when they deceive a poor inventor, and enlarge their profit by deceiving hem and paying a miserable sum for probably dramatic invention, they move further on to improving society of the chosen ones. Finally, each monetarist one day comes to idea of the endless profitability.

All this must come to an end, and not only because of someone's envy of having earned less money than another, but based on the reasonability and willing to prevent tragedies, which are easily discovered inside the chaos of global relations, chaos of financial relations, or chaos of national travel both now and in the nearest future. These tragedies can imply biological death of humanity as species and rational beings.

Next point is the people's spiritual motivations inside a new civilization. As such civilization must be formed based on the sufficiency criteria of an individual and communities; in extraction of various resources both individually or by some group of people. The most positive features of the human's Soul features must become the fundamental of the new civilization laws. No need of any meetings. No need of any demagogues. Labor, rational resources distribution; birth-rate control; high level of education; and positive control over each person. Current technologies can easily provide that.

At that, election of all and any power representatives must be performed by lot among several candidates.

The population must be ranked, as the abovesaid candidates must be selected based on the position level and the "rank" of inhabitants of the specific "region of sufficiency" and mainly of philosophers.

Beliefs and the language of communication must be unified for the entire planet. How to do that? By means of the stepped activity of committees formed from the selected representatives of various professions and nations.

Spiritual motivations of a new civilization person must be directed at forming individuals inside a human society rather than a capitalism based groups! Philosophers and mass media of the new civilization must operate on eliminating negative features of the Soul such as envy, anger, deception, etc.

3.2. “Regions of sufficiency” and gradual liquidation of state institutions

The introduced in this paper notion “regions of sufficiency” implies an area of the plants that can be determined as a region inhabitant by a specific amount of people living in small settlements with a distributed system providing with all necessary resources, education, and healthcare. Such “region of sufficiency” may include areas of several modern countries. Under decision of the global government, the planet can be divided into several dozens of such regions. Management of each region can be elected on lot base among people having specific rank. All region inhabitants must have ranks, and such rank can provide them the right to be elected, to obtain specific education or access to resources, as well as the right for the birth of issue. The latter must be regulated by applicable quotes for each “region of sufficiency”. The right to select a religious faith must be determined by regions and the global government elected by lot among people with a specific rank. Distribution of people by small settlements can settle the key problem of the urbanistic civilization – living in cities full of crowds and multistoried buildings, and negative features of the Soul that often reduces intellect and evil criticism of each individual.

It should be noted that voluntary escape from the city and construction of cottages, summer cottages, or houses in villages improves its position in almost all well-developed countries. To stay alone with the Nature for even a little time and work on the ground give people a possibility to see the surrounding world with a larger optimism than when living in cities. Particularly the recovery of human features after living in a city being a source of the evil is one of the key tasks for creating the “regions of sufficiency”.

One of the principle issues during the urbanistic civilization dismounting is the gradual liquidation of states, which will require many years of patient work of the global government.

Moreover, it will be also necessary to liquidate capitalistic mechanisms of the economy being the base of urbanism, as they set human civilization to the edge of corruption (as it was said before).

All the above must be done to preserve people as a biological species, and to maintain knowledge, accumulated by people, history, and life on the Earth. And probably, that is the central idea of humans' existence.

One more point is that the experiments on "liquidation" of the city and urban life were already conducted in extremely distorted form in China and Kampuchea.

Millions of destroyed lives, hard work in awful conditions were provided as a rescue from the urbanistic contamination. But all that was done by people who "played" in politics and not supported ideas of equality for everyone.

Another experiment was conducted by the Teutonic Order that conquered the eastern territories, assigned land plots to each Teutonic knight, where they built castles at some certain distance from each other, managed the household, and controlled life of surrounding settlements.

3.3. Determination Of Organizational Structure For The New Civilization Management

It is supposed that the organizational structure of the new civilization Management should consist of one main executive authority – the global government, government election body, “regions of sufficiency” regulating authority, resources distribution authority, science and industry regulating authority, public healthcare body, security and resource protection authority, body regulating religious institutions, body regulating environment and space protection, finance and economy authority, and other bodies regulating normal existence of the post-urbanistic civilization.

A Council of Elders can be used for stabilization of the management decisions issued by the global government.

The institution regulating forecasts concerning crisis situations for the existing civilization and determining a set of alterations required to eliminate risks that can arise during transfer to other models of the human civilization should hold a specific place.

There is no use to provide detailed description of functions for each structural subdivision regulating life of the new non-urbanistic and distributed civilization, as all decisions concerning this point must be made by the global government. Initial simulation of the organizational structure must take into consideration a wide variety of life-support factors based on theoretical surveys of the planned economy of USSR, Japan, or China. To make optimal decisions in constructing management structures regulating both the civilization in general, and each of its “regions of sufficiency” it may be required to establish the Organizational planning authority.

3.4. The Ranking System In The Post-Urbanistic Civilization

The order of ranks must be formed based on personal achievement of each inhabitant of the Planet. The assigned rank must provide a right to receive resources necessary for his or her activity, as well as a possibility to be elected to the management systems of the “regions of sufficiency”, or the global government authorities.

Each rank provides certain capabilities; however some actions can be restricted, while be allowed to people having a higher or lower ranks.

Transfer from one rank to another will be possible under accumulation of some specific merits by a certain person; thus, there should be introduced specific criteria to evaluate activity and duty performance of each person. . Similar ranking systems proved their effectiveness in China, Russia, or masonry society.

Probably there would be enough to set ten ranks for normal activity. Whereas criteria for determining characteristics and tests applicable for a person inside the ranking system must be directly connected with the executed works, and success of their fulfillment to the benefit of the new civilization; and with the regulations set for each rank. Many people would object this idea.

To support this concept it should be said that the chaos is not better than the order, especially when chaos followers continuously enlarge volumes of weapon hiding by the Ancient Rome logo: “Fiat justitia, et pereat mundus! – Let justice be done, and let the world perish!” Indeed, there is very little sense in starting a new civilization from several survived Adams and Eves.

CHAPTER 4

VARIANTS OF CONSTRUCTING PRINCIPLE STRUCTURES OF THE NEW CIVILIZATION

4.1. Organization Of The New Civilization Management Authorities

The previous Chapter described approximate organizational structure of the new civilization. This Chapter provides general clarification and competences of each management authority.

Distribution of the population within the planet during dismantling the urbanistic civilization and construction of a new more stable and reliable civilization based on reducing the “crowd effect” typical for urban living, and further liquidation of the negative features of the Souls will make it possible to regulate processes of the population reduction in gradual, probably natural manner. This new civilization that can also be called the “distributed civilization” will be grounded on “regions of sufficiency” described before.

Their quality should vary from 10 to 50 and be determined by their geographical location, and accessibility of industry and life-supporting structures. For instance, one “region of sufficiency” should include a part of today’s Europe, Asia, and Africa; a part of the Northern America, the Southern America, and Australia, and so on. Such approach will support to (gradually) eliminate borders of today’s countries. Self-exaltation of large cities with their financial bubbles must be transformed into hard-working of each person inhabiting each cell of this new civilization.

Management authorities of the distributed civilization must cooperate with management body of each “region of sufficiency”, and must be arranged so to perform simple common functions: determination of each region’s population volume, provision of life support to the regions, determination of “sufficiency” for scientific researches and objects of the industrial or agricultural section in both global and regional scale.

4.2. Substantiation Of The Lot-Based Election And The Ground For The Election System With Consideration Of The Earth Citizens' Ranking System

The ranking system must be established for all citizens of the Earth regardless to the place, where one or another person lives. Decision regarding quantity of ranks, transfer from one to another rank, terms for such transfer and motivations must be made by the global government, which should be elected by representatives of the “regions of sufficiency” by lot. The lot, being the core principle of election, have been known for ages, however, the democracy is so differently represented by ancients philosophers Aristotle and Plato due to the fact that demagogues of that times very often obtained the power thanks to their talkative ability, and thus removed citizens from actual situation. Sometimes they managed to capture the power solely, and thus turned into dictators. All such properties of the democracy accompanied with the urbanism currently form regimes supporting extreme voluntaristic solutions in the prejudice of population.

This is why the suggested election method based on lot would remove demagogy, mass media advertising, endless speech production, and select from a range of people with almost equal intellect level persons able to constitute global government or the management of the “regions of sufficiency”. Personnel’s rotation should be performed each  $1 \div 3$  years, and include replacement of one third of the previously elected officers.

To the global government administration only people with the fundamental philosophic knowledge should be elected.

All offered mechanisms of the new civilization functioning should be regulated by a Constitution of a Code adopted by all founders of the new global order that will make it possible, as it was already said before, to preserve humans, their mentality, and biological status.

4.3. Control Of The Technological Reformation And Science Achievements Within The New Civilization

Among the structures of the new civilization management, one subdivision must regulate scientific researches and technological reformations on the various levels of society. Such subdivision is necessary, first of all, due to the fact that all novelties introduced into human society transform people's skills and motor reactions, and thus, change activity of certain cerebrum zones, alter their speech, motions, and motivations. Motivations shift or the "I wish" game leads people to parasitism based on the "I-want-it-now" motto.

Moreover, such elements of technological innovations as robots, or information systems "compact" people living in one apartment, and can bring them and the society in general to "urbanistic relations", which excite negative features of the Soul.

Here under the "urbanistic relations" one should understand ratio of the population amount to a certain square area of the residential space; and the more is the population density, and the indicated robots and information systems can also be referred to population, the more is the risk of a new civilization cell to return to the old urbanistic form. Certainly, it is hard to stop human's brain activity either individual or collective, but it is possible to direct this activity to satisfaction of public needs, to philosophizing similar to characters of the Aristophanes' comedy "Clouds", which creates the "Thinkery" intended to calm the own Ego, and apprehension of the world's existence, and, as an alternative to the above, the fraud suggested to the main character.

This drama represents the war inside the arising urbanism as an evil civilization – "son beats his father" because of his debts, and the piece of the other – villain and philosophic civilization. Yet, the author shows people for the Thinkery, like Socrates, simple and poorly dressed, first of all, while reading this drama it is necessary to pay special attention to struggle of two opposite rising civilizations: rural and distributed, and urbanistic. The urbanistic civilization became the winner for long years up to now, having turned into cruel, horrific uncontrolled capitalistic system that developed the most negative motivations in people. Moreover, it let the genie out of the bottle – the scientific and technical revolution, which technological processes are capable to destroy this urbanistic civilization and humans as a biological species. Thus it is so important to stop, address to the mind, and perform, as it was already said, dismounting of the old civilization, and open to all citizens of the Earth the “entrance” to the long-term world, new civilization, where scientific and technological achievements are under control, people have access to knowledge, and are motivated to develop their best features of the Soul.

4.4. Level Of Education Sufficiency In The New Non-Urbanistic Civilization

Educational system of the new civilization must be formed based on the labor sufficiency of each person, and its role in the regions' economy. Amount of food, clothes, and services must be restricted by regular participation in agricultural works. Amount of competences in each labor field of probable participation stipulates the structure and the level of the "knowledge steps" during teaching new generations. Each "region of sufficiency" must include "cells of welfare" with their own schools with continuous education system starting from elementary to the higher specialized education provided by the best philosophers and professors of special disciplines. There must be one educational center per one "cell". Priority of the disciplines taught in such centers must be closely connected to public values. Philosophers – managers must be among the core specialties. Their role in activity of the regions, cells, or the global management in general, must be supervising, and it should be referred to the spiritual life either. Creators of the material, they will solve issues related to the life supporting of the societies. And teachers will provide educational function in adherence with the Code of citizen of this new civilization free from competition.

The citizen's Code must comprise the basic requirements and capabilities of each person within the bounds of the laws regulating behavior of each citizen and the civilization in general. People without philosophic education must not be allowed to generate the laws. Each citizen's mind, no matter how skilled he or she is, must be focused on positive creation. The entire system of education must be aimed at discovering positive elements of the Soul and elimination of the negative features described in previous chapters.

4.5. Establishment Of The Positive Control Over Activity Of Each Citizen Of The Earth

First of all there should be formed managing authorities to prevent events risking for the civilization. With any, even the top quality education about 2% of people based on physiological features of their organisms demonstrate tendencies to negative actions (Lombroso) including criminal, disorderly conduct, or economic crimes. The new non-urbanistic civilization must eliminate all such crimes and offences. To do that it is necessary to arrange control over activities of each person, and cease misbehavior in the very beginning of it by means of special electronic devices inserted into a person when a child. As the new civilization will be inhabited by the scientifically grounded amount of people that must be in times less than it is currently, such control will be quite realistic. At that, such control must have duplicated nature in several centers all around the planet and must not be anchored to the regions of sufficiency. Prevention of emergencies in people's lives will be key task for such centers that will be allowed to apply any even stern measures to violators of the Earth's citizen Code.

4.6. Determination Of Criteria Of Civilization Transformation Into Another Form Under Certain Critical Situations And A Possibility Of Its De- struction

There must be a rational approach to understanding that the human civilization during its development and formation of a specific-type society should always pay special attention to preservation of the human's biological status as a rational organism.

Thus, parameters of the human's status, its organism, and outer characteristics surrounding him must be continuously monitored with consideration of a possibility for his normal existence that is availability of air, water, and resources in general. Is the case a society shifts towards the dangerous zone of uncertainty, there must be actuated laws of preserving the rational human that will transform (probably on a forced base) the existing civilization, dismount it, and construct a new one. There is no any other way. Confessedly, in terms of the proper "exploitation" of the civilization based on the positive features of the Soul such would not have place, nevertheless, the human's head, namely his brain hides tremendous reserves of "the unconscious programs", which under the mass psychoinfections may defeat all best features of the human.

Under emergency situations that can arise on the Earth, there must be foreseen migration of intelligent people to an island with army reinforcement; to space; if possible, under water into specially constructed settlements. Together with that the mad negative power containing negative features of the Soul, which can prevail at that moment among the humanity, must be cut off of all accessible technological capabilities that would make it possible to destroy people bearing positive features of the Soul, that it to "burn own bridges" after migration to new areas is complete. Algorithms of rescuing humans as a biological species must be developed with consideration of various probable scenarios up to the absurd situation, when a new civilization can start from Adam and Eve.

Afterword

It is the fact that the suggested variant of extending lifetime of the human civilization and a human as a biological species requires significant mental efforts, financial expenses, and modification of the world order. Nevertheless, the humanity must modify its future into a society of rational people. One can hope on diviners who will “form” our Future by weasel words full of double or even triple senses, and finally lead to civilization collapse. Yet, it is possible, as it was already described before, to analyze the “outer threats”, i.e., space issues, resources deficiency, danger induced by the science to civilization existence; and the “inner threats”, which can be discovered in labor as element and features of the Soul; and based on the discovered, develop algorithms for variants of the civilization modifying under various threats combinations: including various X-factors, such as earthquakes, some space objects falling on the planet, appearing of uncommon viruses, diseases, etc.; and consistencies related to the activity of a human, groups of people, or states being the sources of wars and crises, inside intellectual distortions in peoples' minds caused by the urbanism as the base of the modern civilization.

Is it possible to develop such algorithms for many years to come? Is a person with limited abilities capable to do that? The author supposes that he can, however for a limited period only, as there are no ideal systems for civilization existence because the person and his Soul are quite self-contradictory systems that possess powerful energy distorting any good initiative; nevertheless there can be developed algorithms valid for hundreds of thousands years by means of limiting technological breakthroughs and own false-glory.
